BURNED TO DEATH BY AIRSHIP'S FALL

Mack Kitchen Meets Frightful Death in Accident With Aviator at Boyes Springs.

Mack Kitchen, 19 year old automobile mechanic of Oakland met a frightful death in the field just back of the Boyes Springs bathhouse on Monday afternoon when the Curtis airship in which he was a passenger fell to the earth and burned up. Kitchen who was strapped to the plane was powerless to escape and was incinerated before the eyes of hundreds of horror stricken spectators and two other occupants of the flying machine who jumped clear of the blazing wreckage.

The airship piloted by H. C. Honn, the owner and accompanied by Reynolds Foss of San Francisco, had been flying over Sonoma Valley thruout the day and just before returning to San Francisco, Kitchen was taken up for a free ride. He was a brother in law of Foss. While flying over the bathhouse the pilot encountered a bad air current and he started to descend. The wing of his plane unfortunately caught a telephone wire and tipped Before Honn could shut off his engine the gasoline tank burst into flames. The pilot and Foss jumped to safety but Kitchen entangeled in the plane was trapped by the blaze. Despite every effort at rescue and heroic measures by his companions and on-lookers to save him, Kitchen was burned to a crisp before their very eyes.

Nothing but a charred twisted mass of debris was left of the bright red and yellow plane which had been swooping over the country like a huge dragon fly just a few minutes previous to the dreadful accident.

Honn and Foss burned and cut from the tragedy were hurried to town for medical treatment. Max Booth a spectator who attempted to rescue Kitchen was also rushed to the office of Dr. Thomson for relief from his burns.

Undertaker Bates took charge of Kitchen's remains and summoned Coroner Phillips who held an inquest at 10 o'clock Monday night, taking a statement from Honn at his bedside in the Toscano Hotel.

A verdict was brought in by the jury in accordance with the facts.

When news of the tragedy spread over the Boyes Springs bathhouse, hundreds of people rushed to the scene of the accident. The field where the blazing plane fell took fire and much hay was destroyed.

The American Legion has been invited to participate in Sunday evenings program and many visitors will join with the regular congregation in honoring the emblem which has been on the walls of the church since the boys from old Sonoma were first mustered into the service of their country.

FRESNO IS OPTIMISTIC

Believing that amendments to the Volstead act will revive the wineries in California, R. W. Barnwell, who is interested in the purchase of the old Eisen winery, states that within a year or two he will be making wine again. In the meantime the winery is being used for the manufacture of grape syrups. Many of the wineries in this section are operating along a similar plan and it is reported that all owners are of the opinion that the plants will soon be operating in the manufacture of dry and sweet wines. OVER $1400 RECEIPTS FROM 4th OF JULY CARNIVAL IN SONOMA

COMMUNITY CELEBRATES THREE JOYFUL DAYS. LITERARY EXERCISES AND PARADE ON FOURTH LARGELY ATTENDED

The three days Fourth of July carnival in Sonoma drew big crowds to participate in the good time and program features and the committee reports gross receipts of over $1400 from the successful and enjoyable affair.

The plaza was thronged night and day and booths and concessions were liberally patronized. The carnival opened Saturday afternoon, the big Ferris wheel of the Curtis and Krogman shows having a prominent place in the plaza foreground and at night illuminated Broadway two miles down The illuminations of the town and city hall were brilliant and made Sonoma look like a minature exposition.

The serpentine ball was the big feature Saturday night and formally opened Sonoma's three days festivities. Union Hall resplendent in red white and blue was thronged with merry makers, and at midnight a confetti battle and serpentine display was enjoyed by dancers and spectators. A five piece orchestra discoursed the latest musical numbers and refreshments were served by committees headed by Mrs. A. Bates, Mrs. H. J. Wicker and Mrs. R. L. Watt. Over $100 was taken in at the door besides many tickets sold on the outside.

Vaudeville staged by Meryl Bish was also a feature of the Saturday evening program of the celebration and drew a goodly crowd to the Don Theatre.

Sunday morning there was most impressive services in front of the old mission where an altar had been erected and where Rev. J. F. Byrne celebrated Mass. The altar was decorated effectively in white flowers and the blessed candles were illumined prior to the commencement of the mass. The priest in his robes standing before the altar under the eves of our historic church July 4th 1920 was a never to-be-forgotten spectacle, and in his well chosen sermon the pastor of St. Francis declared that it was indeed a solemn observance of a great day for "love of God and love of Country." A special choir led by Miss Donegan of Boyes Springs assisted by Mrs. L. V. Emparan and two young men from San Francisco rendered the music for the Mass. The ancient Mission bell of 1829 was rung at the solemn parts of the services.

The Fourth of July parade on Sunday afternoon was largely attended but owing to the busy season and the short time for preparation was not participated in by as many as had been hoped would compete for the prizes offered. However the features were particularly fine and brought forth hearty applause all along the line of march. The Vallejo band led the procession. Chairman, Chas. La Torres of the Parade committee deserves the highest praise for his beautiful float "My Own United States."

The big Rovai auto truck was used to build the throne for the fair Goddess of Liberty, Miss Norma Hansen. The young lady looked beautiful draped in the American flag and was surrounded by Uncle Sam (Ellis Simmons) and the young ladies who represented the various states in the Union. Miss Emily Batto as California was clad in a rich yellow satin dress and picture hat simulating a California poppy. She was typically a daughter of our Golden State.

Sonoma's sons in the war, the American Legion members made a proud showing as they marched in uniform carrying Old Glory, and the young patriots made the hearts of all beat with pride at their participation in our Independence day celebration.

Grand Marshal Weise and his aides including Messrs J. Wagnon, Charles Potter, Emmett Mullen, James H. Albertson and the Felder brothers, Joe Danieli and Mr. Sganzini handeled their spirited horses like veterans of the rein and were roundly cheered all along the line of march. A Fordson tractor, all dolled up in red, white and blue and driven by Ralph Busby came in for its share of applause from the spectators.

The Mission Creamery had its huge truck finely decorated and full of shining milk cans and reviewed industrial conditions in the county, sounded a vote of warning on Bolshevism and reviewed the great wars in which the United States had participated and which have given us prestige throughout the civilized world. He spoke of the coming election, of the duties of citzenship and presaged the ever increasing glory and power of our America. Prolonged applause followed his splendid discourse.

At the conclusion of the literary exercises the crowds made merry at the carnival until evening when many attended the clever performance at the Don Theatre put on by Ralph Ring and Clarence Taylor. The colored comedians made a decided hit in an original sketch featuring the great burlesque "Madam Zuzu in her mind reading act." Songs by Henry Weber Jr. were heartily applauded by the big audience present. Over $46 was netted by the committee from the vaudeville shows.

A band concert on the plaza Sunday evening was another entertainment feature provided by the citizens of Sonoma for their Fourth of July guests.

Refreshment booth, country store and fortune telling in the vicinity of the concert were the mecca of much of the crowd while others took in the more spirited entertainment provided by the carnival company and '49 camp.

On Monday the holiday crowds thronged the plaza and generally enjoyed themselves.. The boxing bouts at Union Hall drew a big crowd of followers of the "manly art." Two local boys Perry and Farrell staged an event which went to Farrell with prompt honors.

The Joe White and Larry Jones bout was declared a draw. Other events on the card were equally good and the crowd was well amused with two hours of spirited sport.

All in all Sonoma's July 1920 celebration was a big success and much credit is due the committees who in so short a space of time for preparation drew big crowds to Sonoma and will succeed in netting close to $1000 as a result of their efforts. The Sonoma Business Men's Association will give their share of the proceeds to the plaza and the others are being urged to do likewise.

It is planned to fill in the low places in our park with the soil excavated from the new street work and to plow it up after the early rains and sow it to blue grass. The celebration funds will be used to further this splendid civic improvement.

THAT RECALL PETITION

The Hoyle recall petition was filed in Santa Rosa Thursday. To the credit of Sonoma Valley let it be said that not a local name was affixed to the unjust document by which it is sought to unseat a conscientious public official on pretext and subterfuge. The attack on District attorney Hoyle grew out of his firm stand to have the peoples' money expended in a strictly business and legal manner. He antagonized the county engineer and others whom he held to strict account.

Harold Weise, who is attending summer school at U. C. was up over the holiday visiting his folks Supervisor and Mrs. Harry Weise.

Louis Picetti entertained his cousins from San Francisco over the Fourth. They are in the florist business in the metropolis.

Gus Albers, formerly of this place but now connected with a leading bank of San Francisco has been spending his vacation in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Carl Weisshaar of San Francisco has been up on a visit to old Sonoma friends.

PARK DONAHUE DIED IN NAPA LAST WEEK

Old Sonoma Boy of Pioneer Family Was At One Time Foreman of Eden Dale Ranch.

NAPA, June 30.—The recent hot wave caused a fatality in Napa when Parker Donahue, employed for several years past on Mrs. Sarah Neuenschwander's ranch in Carneros district passed away at an early hour yesterday at the Benjamin Shurtleff hospital.

Mr. Donahue was overcome by the heat on Saturday, June 19, one of the warmest days ever experienced in Napa. He was brought to the home of his brother, Joseph Donahue, but rapidly became worse. Cerebral meningitis, caused by the heat prostration, developed and everything that medical science could suggest was done for him, but to no avail. He was unconscious for several days before the end came.

Deceased was a member of a prominent pioneer family, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Donahue, settling at Schellville, Sonoma county, in 1849. He was born in Schellville and was 54 years of age. He never married. He is survived by six brothers and one sister, as follows: Thomas and Charles Donahue of San Francisco, Will Donahue of Portalnd, Ore., Joseph Donahue of Napa, Victor Donahue of Schellville, and Robert Donahue of Seattle and Mrs. Georgia Burns of San Francisco.

DEMOCRATS RECOGNIZE DANGER IN 18th AMENDMENT

The supreme court finding that the 18th amendment is legal and American recalls the rise of the dry spectre in the United States and speculation as to its far reaching effect on other movements to which the pronouncement may open the way unless the Volstead act is liberally modified. Almost any radical movement may now succeed and come to be a part of our laws.

In this instance it was a moral question which politicians seized upon as a means to make the party of power their power. The public offices big and little were coveted by reformers and those willing to climb to power by pinning the white flag of the chemically better to the mast of their ambitions. Perfect organization won the day for the "drys", and we behold the almost impossible spectacle of minority putting a collar upon the majority and making it stick, in order that the government may experiment with the reform of the nation. It is a costly experimental sally too, for the government deprived of revenue by the elimination of the taxes exacted while in the "nefarious" alliance with Barleycorn, must make the people pay for putting the prohibition hobby into effect. Not only must actual deficit be made up but prohibition is not being realized without an enormous added expense for the breathascope gentry and the genius of the gumshoe. That prohibition does not prohibit seems manifest and tends to make us a nation of masqueraders which is a fore runner of the more alarming spectacle of law abiders becoming brazen law breakers. Since hypocricy is an attribute of most reformers, it is not surprising that they should be content to rest on the camouflage, though knowing full well that prohibition as a matter of reality is a joke. Which one of them will succeed in training the booze sleuth upon cider or brew at just the rise of the bead which converts innocent beverage into innoxious brew? Which one of them will pounce upon its possessor and dash the hemlock from his lips at just the critical moment? All the seven league boots and jumpisg Jonathans in the land would not be equal to the job. As a result beverage becomes a drink and prohibition laws a costly travesty.

But that is of small moment compared to the constitutional tinkering and enforced regulation or straight-jacketing the American people may be subjected to. A precedent has been established, dangerous in the extreme whereby almost any charge may be wrought in our fair land provided the movement is organized along the lines fashioned by prohibitionists. Nothing is as likely now as social upheaval for there is a large percentage with plots already fomented who have only been waiting to see the possibilities of drastic distortion of the constitution of the United States long regarded as sacred and inviolable. We may look for anything now from radicals since the moral radical has won his test case.

With millions of gallons of wine being shipped for sacramental and medical purpose the economic ruination of the California manufacturer of wine which we feared and in whose behalf we fought does not seem imminent nor does the interference with habit or custom seem jeopardized but that the prohibition constitutional victory will be a dangerous entering wedge for other radical things which will split the nation wide open is neither improbable or impossible.

For this reason the Democratic convention could not be satisfied until a man was found who is said to favor modification of the Volstead act. Although knowing a president's power to be decidedly limited in determining the wet or dry percentage of the laws of our land, the Democrats were convinced that there should be a safety valve.

In the nominating speech for Governor Edwards, the New Jersey speaker did not hesitate to say that New Jersey believed that the prohibition clause in the constitution of the United States was one of the worst blows at liberty and Americanism that the country could have had inflicted upon it and that it was for this reason that Governor Edwards had come forward to make the fight along out and out "wet" and "dry" lines.

The New Jersey support finally went to Cox and there is now no doubt but that the Democratic national campaign will be one in which personal liberty and the infringment of the 18th amendment thereon will play a pronounced part.

CUNEO FOR ASSEMBLY ON "WET" TICKET

Following the announcement of the nomination of Governor Cox, of Ohio, as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, Andrew Cuneo, familiarly known as "the boy orator" of the San Francisco mint, announced his candidacy for Assemblyman from the twenty-eighth district. Cuneo declared that it is his intention to run on a strictly "wet" platform.

He is well known in Sonoma Valley being an owner of a cottage at Boyes Springs. Good luck Andrew.

FIRES MENACE PROPERTY IN VALLEY THIS WEEK

A fire on the Swain ranch on the Fourth brought volunteer fire fighters to the vicinity of Warfield where it took good judgment and much hardwork to stop the flames. The chemical from Boyes could not respond owing to the fear of fires in the vicinity of the springs but a number of volunteers went up and joined the bucket and wet sack brigade. While away the Little Red Devil responded to a call from the Sonoma Vista side where a grass fire threatened homes. It was a busy day for the chemical. Monday it was rushed to the scene of the burning airplane accident. Although the plane and its victim were beyond help, the hay field afire from the accident was saved from complete destruction by prompt action of the "always ready" chemical and volunteers.

At El Verano Tuesday a lively grass fire started in the vicinity of the Weaver property and gave fire fighters a hard battle before the flames were completely under control.

WOULD IMPLICATE SONOMA NEWSPAPER IN ALLEGED LIBEL

Michael A. Bohlig, Sonoman alleged to have written a libelous letter to a Sonoma newspaper about Geo. Bruns, filed a demurrer to Bruns's amended complaint yesterday, in which he declares that the Sonoma Expositor-Forum, which published the letter, should be made a party defendant. J. R. Leppo represents Bohlig.

SONOMA MAN'S BEQUEST TO GERMAN CHARITIES SOUGHT BY ORGANIZATION

A German war-relief organization with an almost unpronouncable name yesterday filed notice of appeal to the state supreme court over a degree of the local superior court turning over part of the estate of the late C. Bosse of Sonoma to the alien property custodian.

The organization is known as the Reishsauschuss der Kriegsbeschaedigten-und Kriegsshinterbliebenfursorge. There are 27 letters in the last word of this name.

The present unique situation had its inception in the war. In January, 1918, Bosse made his will leaving $30,000 to his mother, then believed to be in Bremen, Germany, or in the event of her previous death the money was to be divided amony other relatives. Ten thousand dollars was to go to a cousin, Sophie Hagedorn, daughter of the late Captain Alex Hagedorn of the German military forces; $12.500 to another cousin, Eritz Hagedorn; $5,000 to Mrs. L. Quartaroli of Sonoma. A F. Hopke of Sonoma was to receive $20,000 under the will. After these various bequests were executed, Bosse wanted the remainder of his estate to go to war relief organizations in Germany, the executor, George A. Mastick, to determine what institutions should receive the money.

Bosse died in San Francisco in December, 1918, a month after the the signing of the armistice, and the local superior court ordered the estate distributed, but the amounts which would otherwise have been sent to Marie Bosse, one of the relatives, and to the German war-relief organization, were ordered turned over to Francis P. Garvin, alien property custodian.

The present notice of appeal is addressed to Mastick, Garvin, Garrett W. McEnerney, attorney for Garvin, and others.
